The EUROPEAN STUDY AND CAREER FAIR, which takes place in Mannheim, Germany on 3rd of April 2012, brings together more than 1000 international students from all over Europe and 500 local students, with universities, companies, scholarship platforms, academic institutions, and other organisations, providing a perfect space for networking and making life choices for the participants' future.

The event is organised as part of the Biannual General Assembly (Agora) of the biggest interdisciplinary European Students' Association, AEGEE-Europe. The participants of the Agora, as well as local students and international students participating in different exchange programmes and temporarily living in the city, get the opportunity to select from programmes offered by up to 40 European universities and internships and career opportunities of international institutions and companies.

The sixth edition of the European Study and Career Fair brings together students from different backgrounds with a unique profile. AEGEE's members have a strong interest in international co-operation and dispose of a broad experience in fields such as project management, intercultural teamwork and virtual communication. The event will be open also for local students who are interested in changing their living environment by moving abroad for educational or career reasons.

It is a truly unique opportunity for universities, companies and other partners to promote their programmes among potential international students or employees. The European Study and Career Fair organised by AEGEE-Europe unites universities, institutions and other partners with young people from literally all over Europe (including 40 European countries).

The European Study and Career Fair will be promoted through the diverse means of communication owned by AEGEE, as well as in cooperation with its partners, the local branches of AEGEE and the University of Mannheim.
